MORE TESTIMONY IS TAKEN TODAY

NURSE WHO CARED FOR COLON-EL SWOPE, AGAIN ON THE STAND.

Tells of the Defendant Trying to Get Her To Aid Him Becoming the Executor of Swope Estate.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Kansas City, April 20.—When the trial of Dr. Hyde for the murder of Col. Swope, was begun today, the nurse who attended Mrs. Swope, one of the executors of Col. Swope's will, was again called to the stand and gave most damaging testimony against the defendant. According to the testimony presented it was only after Dr. Hyde, the man, the physician in charge of the case, had asked Dr. Hyde three times and his own wife three times, did Dr. Hyde stop the flow of blood from Hutton's arm.

In the testimony yesterday it was shown that Hutton who was suffering from an aneurysm, had been bled by Dr. Hyde, who had been called in to assist Dr. Twyman, the gentleman's regular physician.

The nurse further testified that only a few minutes after Hutton's death Dr. Hyde had impounded her to use her influence in having him made an administrator of Colonel Swope's estate.

This testimony is taken as most damaging to the defendant who sat throughout the relating of the facts of Hutton's death unmoved.

The wife sat near him and encouraged him with whispered conversation. The trial has thus far been filled with objections of both the defense and prosecuting attorneys, relative to the defendant. According to the testimony much of the possible testimony has been precluded from the testimony.

The men were employed at the east side paper mill and went in a boat to investigate the cause of loss of water power which followed the breaking of the dam and their boat was drawn through the dam and five men were drowned. One man with them, John Kluge, was rescued from a tree for down the river by the late John Cunningham and Fred J. Bailey, now of Janesville, at the peril of their lives. The victims of the disaster were Will Constock of Rockton, Dan and Jacob Paderkirk, twins, and Albert Griffith and Albert Bucklin. The bodies of all were recovered after many weeks.

Coal Catches Fire.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis., April 20.—John E. Mellish, the boy astronomer of Cottage Grove, a small village near Madison, who discovered the now-famous "Mellish comet" three years ago, sighted Halley's comet at four o'clock this morning with the unaided eye.

Young Mellish has been given high honors by astronomical societies, including the Royal Observatory of Mexico, for his achievements in astronomical science. "The comet was visible straight east," said Mellish today, "a little above the earth. The tail pointed southwest. It will grow longer as days pass, and in a week from now will be a beautiful sight. The tail was four times the diameter of the sun and two degrees long. With opera glasses it showed finely, indicating a length of 25,000,000 miles." Mellish used an eight and one-half inch telescope made by himself on the farm on which he lives.

EDDIE FAY AND HIS PAL ARE ON TRIAL

Notorious Crooks Brought Into Court
At Richmond To Answer For $85,000 Postoffice Theft.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Richmond, Va., April 20.—Frederick Cunningham alias "Eddie" Fay, and Frank Chester, alias "Little Dick" Harris, were placed on trial in Judge Waddell's court today, charged with having committed the robbery of the Richmond postoffice last month. The postoffice inspectors who have been working on the case have been in the conviction of the pair and that as a consequence the number of postoffice robberies is likely to be materially lessened for a time at least.

The robbery of the Richmond postoffice was one of the most sensational affairs of its kind that ever occurred in this section. After overpowering the watchman the robbers carried the safe with the skill of expert cracksmen and got away with a wagon load of stamps and cash. Through the checking of trunks out of Richmond the robbers and their booty were traced to New York. Fay and Harris were captured when they presented the checks for the trunks at the baggage office. A third man believed to have been an accomplice in the robbery ended up in the hospital after being shot by police.

The police have been unable to trace the criminal record of Harris, though no doubt exists in their minds that he is an old hand at safe cracking and has been mixed up in numerous postoffice jobs. Fay, on the other hand, has a worldwide reputation as a cracksmen and postoffice robber and is well known to the police throughout the country. He is believed to have been implicated in the robbery of the Chicago postoffice in 1907, when $7,000 in cash and stamps was stolen by the robbers who tunneled under the building and came through the floor. For months after the robbery Fay was closely watched by the postoffice inspectors, but they were never able to secure sufficient evidence to warrant his arrest. A year later, however, he was arrested on the charge of robbing the postoffice at Superior, Wis. While awaiting trial he escaped from the jail by Jamesville.

Painless Dentistry

People look me right in the eye, and say, "Can you really extract my teeth without hurting?"

I reply, "It is no use for me to say 'Yes'."

You can't believe, You won't let yourself believe it, no matter if I got up on the house top and shouted it.

All I can say is "That scores and scores of people have gotten out of that chair and told me in the most emphatic terms that 'I had not hurt them one bit.'"

Just today I took out four bad teeth for a lady, and she said "Why, it is wonderful, you never hurt me in the least."

Let me prove it to you.

The ceremony was performed in the parlor of the home, by Dr. David Benton, and only relatives of the bride and groom and a few intimate friends were present. The bride wore a gown of white messaline silk and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. The parlor was prettily decorated with palms and spring flowers. At eight o'clock tonight the grand annual gymnastic exhibition for which the members of the Y. M. C. The display shows largely the work that is being done at the association and will embrace all lines of indoor work in the gymnasium. The final rehearsal for the event was held in the high school and everything, from the junior drills up to the more difficult feats of the older members of the association, was accomplished splendidly.

THE WEDDING CAKES WERE MYSTERIOUSLY STOLEN BY SOMEONE DURING NIGHT

Police Only Found Crumbs in An Adjacent House As Tangible Clues.

After Mrs. Oscar D. Rowe's experience last night, it is probable that in the future, no wedding cakes will be left unwatched, unless they have been placed under lock and key. In preparation for the wedding of her daughter, Miss Leahretta Rowe to Robert Lee, Mrs. Rowe had baked five cakes, among them being two fruit cakes, which together weighed about forty-five pounds and which required nearly a month to prepare properly. Last night, she placed them in the cellar, together with a large frosted wedding cake that disappeared. From indications, it is thought that some persons, acquainted with the premises, entered the cellar through a window which had been left open. The police were immediately notified and conducted an investigation. One of the neighbors remembers seeing seven or eight young men enter the house about nine o'clock and that, coupled with the fact that crumbs and bits of frosting were found in a neighboring yard, makes it almost certain that a band of mischievous boys committed the robbery.

WILLIAM BLADON IN A RAILROAD WRECK

Vice President of Merchants & Savings Bank Received Bad Shaking Up Near Clinton, Ia.

William Bladon, vice president of the Merchants & Savings bank, and his daughter, Mrs. Grace Bladon Craig, were injured in a railroad wreck just west of Clinton, Iowa, Saturday afternoon. They left here for Cedar Rapids that morning, enroute at the 10:15, and it fortunately happened that the train on which they were passengers was not moving at full speed when it met a freight in head-on collision. One of the firemen was killed and an engineer fatally injured. Mr. Bladon was lying on his back in the aisle when fellow passengers came to his rescue and his daughter was thrown forward and badly bruised. It was thought at first that Mr. Bladon would sustain no lasting ill effects from his severe shaking up but it was necessary to call a physician after their arrival in Cedar Rapids and his recovery from this experience is not proceeding as rapidly as might be hoped, though no alarm is felt regarding his condition. Mrs. Bladon will leave for Cedar Rapids tomorrow morning.

The Woman in the Moon.
Rational Islanders believe that the moon came down one night and stole the woman Shua, working in the twilight. Never able to return to earth, you may see her now in the moon, with her mallet and the board on which she was beating out bark to make cloth.

Niagara's Commercial Power.
Niagara falls can generate fully 5,000,000 horse-power, but only 5.5 per cent. of it is being utilized. Of this, 125,000 horse-power is used in electro-chemical processes, 55,200 for railway service, 12,500 for transmitting many miles to power plants, and 145,000 is used by factories close to the falls.

Created a New Industry.
Necessity is the mother of invention. An out-of-work engineer in North London has set up a small steam boiler on a costermonger's barrow and invited the smoking public to submit their pipes to him for a thorough cleansing by steam injection, one penny being charged.

Trouble Caused by Oil.
The pious wish expressed by Senator Jeff Davis that Mr. Rockefeller might be burnt eternally with his own oil recalls a petition presented to the United States congress in the early days of the Standard Oil Company. The petitioners prayed that a 'stop' might be put to the irreverent and irreverent proceedings of the trust in drawing such enormous quantities of petroleum from the earth and thus checking the designs of the Almighty, who had stored it there with a view to the eventual destruction of the world.—Chicago News.

The Jamaica Firefly.
The Jamaica firefly, a species over an inch in length, emits a very brilliant light, which comes from the sides of the head and beneath the thorax. The light is a fluctuating one and not the steady glow of the glowworm. A very remarkable fact is that this fluctuating or pulsating light may continue after the death of the animal. It is supposed that the light of the living insect is due to oxygen supplied under its control to the luminous matter we may conclude that after death the oxygen of the air might obtain access to it and produce a like effect. It is difficult, however, to account for the pulsations in the light of the dead firefly.

Theft of a Corpse.
A creepy story of the mysterious disappearance of a corpse comes from Vergeze, France. A short time ago a young woman named Alexandrine Laurent died at Vergeze, and was buried in the Catholic cemetery. A few days ago Alexandrine's mother died, and the relatives decided to bury her in the same grave as the daughter. When the grave was uncovered it was found that the bier had been turned upside down. The coffin, an oak one, was intact, and on being opened, it was found to be empty. The girl's body has disappeared absolutely.

Burglar in Hard Luck.
A Bristol (Eng.) burglar got more than he expected in his last expedition. It was stated in court that a Miss Sarah Williams saw the prisoner entering her bedroom one night, and, jumping out of bed, she rang for a companion and a servant. The three women tackled the burglar, giving him a sound thrashing, during which he howled for mercy. He was sent to prison for seven years.

Best of All Gifts.
The best gift is love or friendship fittingly expressed. The gift which expresses neither is no gift. Of all gifts he is the happiest who bestows gifts which bring comfort and pleasure where it is needed and which can furnish him no other reward than the knowledge that his gifts are well bestowed.

BLACK EVENING TOILETTE.

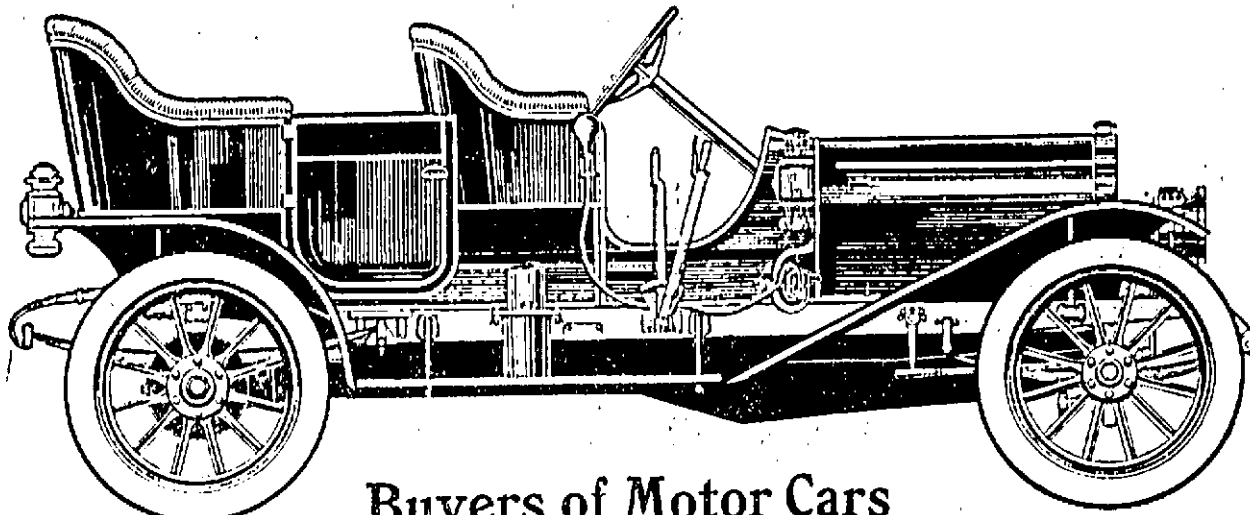

Rich evening gown of black embroidered tulle, with tulle and two shaped flounces of black liberty, the latter caught in front with a passementerie bow. Pique arrangement on corsage is also of black liberty. Long sleeves of plain black net, with raps of embroidered net.

SUFFRAGISTS RESIGN OFFICES.
Friction Between Two Factions Is Said to Be Cause.
Washington, April 20.—The national convention of Woman Suffragists wound up the day with a riot, in the midst of which Mrs. Rachel Foster Avery, the first vice-president, and Mrs. Harriet Taylor Upton, the treasurer, offered their resignations. The convention refused to accept the resignations, whereupon the two officers announced that they would serve only one month longer, after which their successors will be elected by the correspondence method.
The action of the officers is said to have been precipitated by friction between two factions of the suffragists, which has been developing for some time. Mrs. Avery and Mrs. Upton represent the "old line" suffragists, who are opposed to the new following that has grown up around the leadership of Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont. Rev. Anna Howard Shaw, president of the Suffragist association, is regarded as affiliated with Mrs. Belmont.

The Ticklemouse

—and his Sleepyland Adventures
By Roy Rutherford Bailey with Davy and Dorfy

A Call From Mowgli

WHEN the Ticklemouse awakened Davy and Dorfy last night they heard the patter of rain-drops on the windowsill.
They were disappointed, for the Mouse had promised them another trip to India in the hope of again seeing Mowgli, the Man-Cub.
"No," he squeaked, solemnly, "you children are not going out in the rain, Mowgli or no Mowgli."
"But," he went on, drawing one eyelid down in a comical way, "perhaps we can have just as much fun 'toller way about. You may have heard the saying: 'If the mountain won't come to Mahomet, Mahomet will go to the mountain.'"
"It's worth remembering, my dears. What say, shall we have Mowgli come to us?"
The big tigerskin rug, which the Mouse had been carefully tickling with his tail tip, raised its wicked head and growled softly.
"Le still, there!" The Ticklemouse turned to the excited twins. "Is it up here or down in the library?"
"The jungle book, of course, I saw it on the table only the other night."
Dorfy got the book and the Mouse began tickling the pictures, crooning a weird song:

"Jungle, jungle, far away,
Pictured here before us,
Wake, and till the break of day
Fling thy mantle o'er us!"
Tiger, cubra, Old Baloo,
Bear-cub, wolf-cub, man-cub, too—
Come to life, and plant for me
A jungle in the nursery!"
At the last word he rested his paw on the picture of Mowgli, and began picking at the page; then he took hold of the loosened edge and pulled slowly. Out came the picture, leaving an empty space on the white page. The Mouse began on the next picture, that of the old brown bear, Baloo. Soon all the people of the jungle lay side by side on the floor.
The Mouse chanted again the last lines of his song.

"DRYS" GAIN IN ILLINOIS.
"Wets" Lose Barrington and Decatur Where Fight Was Centered.
Chicago, April 21.—The local option issue, which was brought up in one form or another at a score of Illinois cities and villages, resulted in several surprises for both "wets" and "drys." Two of the cities which the "wets" had felt sure of winning over remained in the "dry" column. They were Decatur and Barrington.

On the same issue the returns from the more important cities and villages in the state showed the following to have gone wet either by a vote on the direct issue or by the election of officials favoring the "wets":
Arlington Heights, Franklin Park, McLeanboro, Pans, Rock Falls, Marion, Macou, Montrose, Elmhurst, Channahon, Shannan and Peteraberg.
The "dry" victories were recorded in the following cities and villages: Assumption, Xenia, Flora, Safford Springs, Denton, Decatur and Barrington.
Practically all the larger cities of the state held elections and in the most of them the issues were purely local.

London Clubwomen Using Tobacco.

LETTER A SOURCE OF IRON FOR BLOOD.
Lettuce contains all the mineral elements of nutrition, in form easily assimilated. Deficiency of one or more of these in the blood often leads to serious results, as, for instance, lack of iron causing anemia. The bio-chemic school of medicine would cure any disease by supplying the particular "cell salts" lacking in any case of sickness, as indicated by symptoms. Diagnosis can be avoided by taking them all, in lettuce. In organized form, in which they can undoubtedly be assimilated. Lettuce is best eaten in the morning alone, or with other green vegetables or fruit only. It is especially beneficial in spring and early summer. Four square feet will grow enough for a family. It should be planted in small lots, a week apart, as soon as the frost is out of the ground.

FOR YOUR HAIR

Here Are Facts We Want You to Prove at Our Risk.

Marvelous as it may seem, Rexall "33" Hair Tonic has grown hair on heads that were once bald. Of course it is understood that in none of these cases were the hair roots dead nor had the scalp taken on a glazed, shiny appearance.

When the roots of the hair are entirely dead and the pores of the scalp are glazed over, we do not believe that anything can restore hair growth.

When Rexall "33" Hair Tonic will do as above stated, it is not strange that we have such great faith in it and that we claim it will prevent baldness when used in time. It acts self-evidently, destroying the germs which are usually responsible for baldness.

It penetrates to the roots of the hair, stimulating and nourishing them. It is a most pleasant toilet necessity, is delicately perfumed and will not stain nor permanently stain the hair.

We want you to get a bottle of Rexall "33" Hair Tonic and use it as directed. If it does not relieve scalp irritation, remove dandruff, prevent the hair from falling out and promote an increased growth of hair and in every way give entire satisfaction, simply come back and tell us and without question or formality we will hand back to you every penny you paid us for it.

We lend our endorsement to Rexall "33" Hair Tonic and sell it on this guarantee, because we believe it is the best hair tonic ever discovered. It comes in two sizes, prices 50 cents and $1.00. Remember you can obtain it only at one store.—The Rexall Store, The Smith Drug Co.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

"SUCH a very bad day as I have had today!" said the very young teacher, mournfully. "It didn't seem to me as if I taught those children anything at all. Honestly, I feel as if I ought to ask the superintendent to dock my pay."

The older teacher laughed.

"That reminds me that I actually used to feel that way once myself," she said. "It's so long ago that I'd most forgotten it, but I remember now that I used to get wildly discouraged and feel that I had lost my ability forever and that I hadn't earned my pay and all that."

"But not nowadays."

"In the past thirty years I've learned, among other things, that it's absolutely impossible to live at one's top notch all the time, and that if I didn't earn my pay or justify my ability one day, I more than earned it and more than justified it another."

Seems to me that's a pretty good lesson to remember."

No one can live at his top notch all the time any more than he could live constantly on a high mountain top.

That is, not if it's a very lofty top notch.

If it's a low one you may be able to, just as you could live on a low mountain top.

But if it's a lofty one you've just got to go down into the valleys occasionally to get your breath.

And when you are down there, don't worry that that's going to be your level for the rest of your life.

The valley you are in today may be a sign that the mountain top of tomorrow will be the highest you ever attained.

Who knows?

A certain kind of carelessness was brought most forcibly to my attention the other day when a young man in our office had a distinctly embarrassing experience.

He wrote a letter to a friend on the office paper, and did not bother to put his own name on the envelope underneath the printed notice to return to the office.

The friend had removed to parts unknown. The letter came back, addressed, of course, simply to the office, and one of the editors opened it to find out to whom it belonged.

As luck would have it, the opening sentences of the letter contained a most picturesque criticism of this same editor.

The young man will never make that mistake again, and he suggests that I advise other people to either cross out their return address or remember to insert their names beneath it.

Having had a similar experience when I sent some manuscript to a magazine with similar carelessness, and my rejected poetry was read with unholly glee by nearly the whole office force before it reached me, I am most feelingly glad to pass that good word right along.

Evening Bodice of White Spanish Lace.

A type of evening costume which is wonderfully convenient for the woman who has not a private carriage and must travel to and from restaurant dinners and the theaters in some public conveyance, consists of a demurely trained skirt of a fine silken material in black or a subdued shade and a matching decollete bodice over which may be draped a wide scarf similar to this one of white Spanish lace which is folded across the bust, crossed at the back, drawn over the shoulders and the tops of the arms and arranged upon the neck in square shape.

BY MARY RUSSELL.

pay they make somewhere else. They tell tales in your hearing of only taking such a cheap job while the work in some mansion of wealth is getting ready. And worst of all, half the time they do not give an honest day's labor for the price they themselves have accepted. The position apparently being taken that if you can afford only so much money you get only so much work. It is wiser to pay the price for much less time and then take a high and mighty stand and drive the reluctant employee to the limit of speed.

Surely this attitude is wrong. Why should the working classes expect what they do not give? They are full of criticisms for the man who rises from their own ranks, and who grows proud of his position, and seeks new associates, but do they not place a premium on just such conduct?

The real brotherhood of the poor is to be found among those of one wage and one class. They will give labor to each other in times of need freely and generously, but to the one a little higher up—the one who lives a little better—the one who is a little better educated and has higher aspirations they will not even give an honest day's labor when paid the price that the employer thinks he can afford.

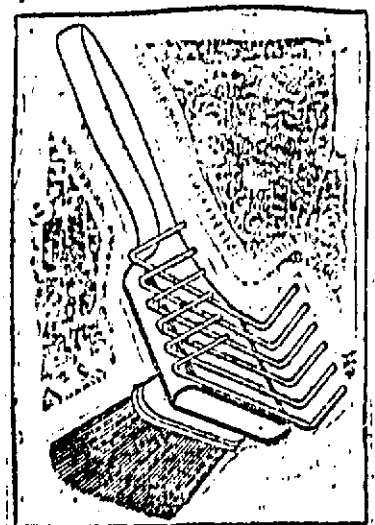

Steadfast honesty is honesty in any field. If you say "I will work for you for a dollar a day," you are just as much obligated to give all that is in you as you are when the purchaser of your labor says, "I will pay you a dollar and a half."

The man who would seem to steal another man's money will steal his time and never seem to see that fundamentally the act is the same. Honesty is honesty, no matter under what guise and what the walk in life. The man who steals time is just as much a thief as the man who steals money. Think it over and see if you do not agree.

Combination of Brush and Rake Will Clear Out the Dirt.

For many years, practically since carpet sweepers have been in use, the popular method of cleaning them was to empty the dirt out of the box, press the brush a tap or two to shake out the same particles clinging to the bristles and put it together again. A New York woman,

RAKES BRUSH OUT CLEAN.

realizing that many housewives were not satisfied with such primitive methods, designed a cleaner for carpet sweepers which is shown in the illustration. The cleaner resembles a paint brush, with the brush part bent at right angles to the handle, and on the other side of the handle is a series of parallel wire fingers, like a double rake. When this rake is drawn through the brush of a sweeper it catches out all the little particles of dirt which are otherwise caught around the roots of the bristles and prevents the brush from doing its most effective work. The brush comes in handy in sweeping the box part of the sweeper thoroughly clean.

The Optimist's Corner

Daily Helps to Health and Happiness

BY GEORGE F. HUTCH, A. M., M. D.

Plant a potato in your cellar. If there is a little light, that potato will sprout and try to grow. But surround it with the best manure, water it, do the best for it, only you shall keep it in the dark, it cannot digest and grow. See how slender and pale it is. The process of digestion, the great function of assimilation cannot go on without sunshine. Have you ever noticed that the only grapes that become perfectly ripe and sweet, that the only peaches that take on those beautiful red cheeks and offer that luscious sweetness, are those that are on the outside, entirely uncovered by the leaves and perfectly exposed to the sun? God's laws are the same in the animal world. It is just as true that the only girls with red cheeks and sweet breath, the only girls who become fully ripe and sweet, are those who baptize themselves fully in God's glorious sunshine. Don't you see a good many pale girls in your store, in your offices, girls with a bloodless, half-baked sort of face, whose walk, whose voice, whose whole expression is devoid of spirit; they are not half ripe. Remove your awnings and shades and let the sun have a fair chance at them. Live in the sunshine and you will have better blood, better digestion, and a better temper.

Study Silk Making.

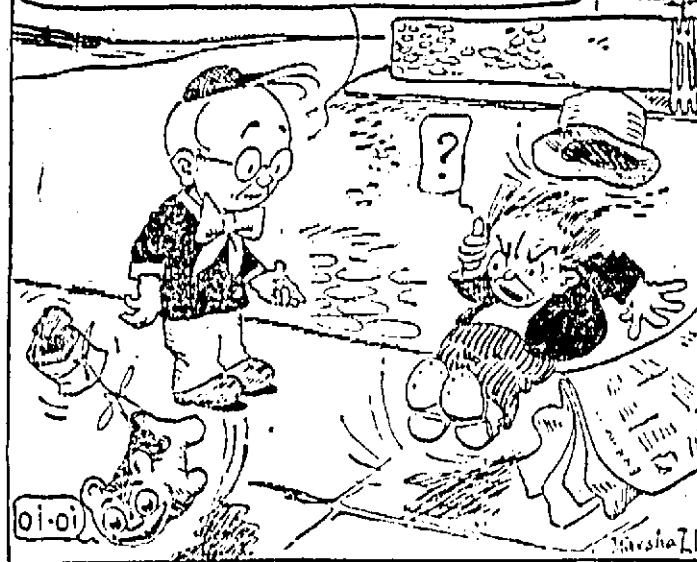

From 200 to 300 boys and girls are constantly in attendance at the two silk schools in Lyons, France, where they learn all the secrets of silk making, from breeding the silkworm to the designing of the patterns and weaving the silk. Upon the Croix-Rouge hill top, where one of the schools is situated, there are not fewer than 20,000 men, women and children engaged in weaving the silk. The pupils go from the school into the rooms where they see silk making carried on, and they often engage in the practical work, besides weaving silk several hours a day in the schools.

It means that Calumet is the best baking powder in every particular in the world. And this means that Calumet produces the best, most delicious, lightest, and purest baking of all baking powders.

Doesn't that mean everything to you?

CLEANING HOUSE IS FUN WITH AN IDEAL VACUUM CLEANER

VACUUM cleaning is now conceded, the world over, to be the only efficient and sanitary method for extracting dust and dirt from carpets, rugs, floors, upholstered furniture, pillows, mattresses, and in fact everything that contains this enemy of the home—because, particularly by the "Ideal" way, it gets ALL the dirt without moving anything from its place, without injuring the most delicate fabrics and without stirring up a particle of dust. It even takes it through the rug from the floor beneath.

You can clean your house from cellar to attic in one day.

Machines rented for $1.50 per day; delivered and called for. Prices $25.00 to $65.00.

"I was of the impression that you would have had it last night," rejoined Pakenham, plainly confused; "in fact, that gentleman advised me to such effect."

"The baroness Helena von Ritz looked him full in the face and only gravely shook her head. 'I regret matters should be so much at fault,' said she. 'Then let me explain,' resumed Pakenham, almost angrily. 'I will state—unofficially, of course—that the promise of Mr. Van Zandt were that her majesty might expect an early end of the talk of the annexation of Texas to the United States. The greater power of England upon land or sea would assure that weak republic of a great and enlightened ally—in his belief.'"

"An ally!" broke out Mr. Calhoun. "And a document sent to that effect by the attitude of Texas?" He smiled coldly. "Two things seem very apparent, Mr. President. First, that this gentle lady stands high in the respect of England's ministry. Second, that Mr. Van Zandt, if all this were true, ought to stand very low in ours. I would say all this and much more, even were it a state utterance, to stand upon the records of this nation."

"Sir," interrupted Mr. Tyler, swiftly turning to Mr. Calhoun, "may I not ask you that it be left as a state utterance?"

Mr. Calhoun bowed with the old-time grace habitual to him, his hand upon his heart, but he made no answer. The real reason might have been read in the mottled face of Pakenham, now all the colors of the rainbow, as he looked from one to the other.

"Mr. Calhoun," continued the president, "you know that the office of our secretary of state is vacant. There is no one living would serve in that office more wisely than yourself, no one more in accordance with my own views as to these very questions which are before us. Since it has come to that point, I offer you now that office, and do so officially. I ask your answer."

The face of England's minister now for the first time went colorless. He knew what this meant.

As for John Calhoun, he played with both of them as a cat would with a mouse, sneeringly superior. His answer was couched in terms suited to his own purposes. "The dignity, Mr. President," said he, bowing deeply again, "so unexpected, so onerous, so responsible, is one which at least needs time for proper consideration. I must crave opportunity for reflection and for pondering. In my surprise at your sudden request, I find no proper answer ready."

Here, then, seemed an opportunity for delay, which Mr. Pakenham was swift to grasp. He arose and bowed to Mr. Tyler.

"I am to Be Married at Six."

to Mr. Tyler. "I am sure that Mr. Calhoun will require some days at least for the framing of his answer to an invitation so grave as this."

wrapper—and in a red-worked nightcap."

"But what did you determine?" I asked her suddenly. "What has my chief said to counsel you to fall poor Mr. Pakenham as you did? I pitied the poor man, in such a grueling, and wholly without warning."

"Monseigneur is dull," she replied evasively. "As though I had changed! I will say this much: I think Sir Richard will care more for Mexico and less for Mexicans after this! But you do not tell me when you are coming to see me, to bring back my little shoe. Its mate has arrived by special messenger, but the pair remains still broken. Do you come to-night—this afternoon?"

"It would be my delight, madam, but there are two reasons—"

"One, then—"

"I am going to Montreal to-night."

She gave me a swift glance, which I could not understand.

"No," she said. "Why so soon?"

"Orders," said I briefly. "But perhaps I may not obey orders for once. There is another reason."

"And that one?"

"I am to be married at six."

I returned to enjoy her consternation. Indeed, there was an alternate white and red passed across her face! But at once she was in hand.

"And you allowed me to become your devoted slave," she said, "even to the extent of calling upon a man in a red nightcap; and then, even upon a morning like this, when the birds sing so sweetly and the little flowers show pink and white—how you cast down my most sacred feelings!"

The mockery in her tone was perfect. I scarce had paused to note it. I was absorbed in one thought—of Elizabeth.

"I might have told you," said I at last, "but I did not myself know it until this morning."

How Do Wireless Waves Travel?

As the result of a study of the various types of receiving systems employed in wireless telegraphy, Charles A. Culver of the University of Pennsylvania concludes that the resistance of the earth between the sending and receiving stations is of prime importance. He thinks that the theory that the waves are propagated through the surface of the earth accounts for more of the observed facts than does the other theory that they pass through the free ether. At the same time, he finds that the earth theory does not at present explain some of the phenomena that are noted in the practical working of the system.

SCENE OF NEW YORK'S TONG WAR

Room 15, Doyers street, where Tung Mon was murdered in the Wah Shung Social club. Below, doorway of the Port Arthur restaurant in Mott street, where Chu Moy Yen was murdered.

New York.—The war of the Tong is on again in Chinatown. Within three hours three Chinamen were shot to death. The first was Chu Moy Yen, who was shot as he stepped from the doorway of the Port Arthur restaurant in Mott street. Scarcely two hours later Chung Fook was shot at the corner of Pearl street and Park Row, and just an hour later Tung Mon was murdered in the Wah Shung Social club at Doyers street.

Hotpinks have never come more swiftly, even in the fabled of Chinatown. Chu Moy-Yen is a leader of the Society of the Four Brothers. Chung Fook was a native in On Leong Tong affairs, and Tung Mon was not only a Four Brothers man, but he was killed at their headquarters. Chinatown does not know when another On Leong will fall, but it feels certain that one will.

Chinatown began to seethe with the excitement before the echoes of the first shot had died away, and on through the afternoon and night the excitement grew in ways the police-
